ACCIDENT MAY COST LIVES OF RAILROAD MEN OCCUPIED BY GEN. ZAPATA

J. H. Waters and J. T. Lendrum Looting Between Evacuation Suffer Fractured Skulls in Railway Crash

CHANCE RECOVERY SLIGHT VERA CRUZ CARRANZA POST

E. S. Ellison Also Hurt When Engine and Motor Collide on Short Line

At 2:30 o'clock this morning it was learned from St. Francis hospital that Mr. Waters' condition was extremely critical and that he was growing weaker. Lendrum's condition was declared more satisfactory, apparently, than before the operation, although neither had regained consciousness.

Jesse H. Waters, president of the Florence & Cripple Creek railroad, and prominent for many years in Colorado railroad circles, and J. T. Lendrum, roadmaster for the line, were in a critical condition at St. Francis hospital and Robert S. Ellison, a Colorado Springs attorney, is suffering from injuries as the result of a collision yesterday forenoon at Cripple Creek between a light engine and a railway motor car in which the three men were riding. Waters and Lendrum have fractured skulls, reports from the hospital last night said, and both are seriously injured. Lendrum's skull is fractured in two places.

The men were brought to Colorado Springs on a special train which reached here at 9 o'clock last night. They were taken immediately to St. Francis hospital where operations were performed in an effort to save their lives. Dr. C. F. Stoughton went to Cripple Creek, where he took charge of the special train.

Both men have but a slight chance of recovery, physicians last night stated. Ellison's injuries are not so serious, although he will be confined to the hospital for several weeks. He sustained a dislocated shoulder and a fracture to his knee and thigh.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Mexican forces of General Zapata occupied Mexico City last night, and are maintaining order, according to official telegrams from Mexico City dated today and received here late tonight.

Two messages were received one from the Brazilian minister and the other from American Consul Sullivan. Both were filed in Mexico City this morning.

Mr. Sullivan reported that the Zapata forces after sharp fighting in the outskirts of the Mexican capital yesterday afternoon in which 150 soldiers were killed, entered the city. There was some disorder and looting in the brief interval between the evacuation of Blanco and the arrival of the Zapata troops, but the city was quiet immediately afterward. The convention forces under General Villahermosa were expected late today.

The Brazilian minister said he had received full assurances from the Zapatas that they would maintain order. He said that contrary to previous promises to the diplomatic corps and without taking any measures to protect the city, Gen. Luro Blanco left the city at 5 a. m. yesterday. The Brazilian minister immediately sent a commission consisting of Carlos Cordeiro, an attorney of the Brazilian legation, and Carlos Parker and S. F. Miller to visit the Zapata headquarters. They were assured that full protection would be given the city.

In the meantime, before the Zapata forces entered, Colonel Saidana, assisted by former Governor Hurlburt in agreement with the diplomatic corps organized a patrol service with the police force whose arms had been taken from them by the departing troops.

Notwithstanding the constant entry of Zapata troops during the night, the Brazilian minister said order had been maintained. He also said the Villa forces were expected at any moment.

RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE IN POLAND HAS BEEN CHECKED, IS GERMAN REPORT

Petrograd Insists on Giga Victory on Vistula, Declaring 50,000 Prisoners Were Taken; Czar Says He's Driving Turks Back; Sultan Is Preparing to Destroy Suez and Tie Up Fleet; Balkans Rumble

The military party in Petrograd continues to insist that there has been a great Russian victory on the battlefield between the Warthe and Vistula rivers in Poland. This claim is based on unofficial reports which even assert that an entire German army corps has been broken up and that 48 trains, which will accommodate 50,000 wounded and prisoners, have been ordered out from Warsaw.

The German official report, on the other hand, declares the Russian offensive in this region has been checked. The latest communication from the Russian general staff says the fighting near Lodz continues, but that the German forces are pressed on every side and are making a supreme effort to cut their way through to the north. The Germans also claim to have brought the Russian advance to a stop in East Prussia and before Cracow, in Galicia. A Russian official statement says that the Russians mightily have the upper hand near Cracow.

COLOMBIA AND ECUADOR VIOLATING NEUTRALITY

Wireless Stations Controlled by Germans. Charge: U. S. Appealed to by Britain for Aid

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(Reuter.)—Chief Sequoy, whose grandfather, Chief Sequoy, was a Cherokee warrior and who man, is the bride-to-be of Richard W. Croker, who used to be the "Big Chief" of Tammany Hall. The bride, a Scotchman, married Miss Sequoy, a Cherokee, the Indian chief's granddaughter. This devoted tonight, when a marriage license was issued to Richard W. Croker, 73 years old, no occupation, and Miss Sequoy, 23 years old, a singer.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(Great Britain and France have appealed to the United States to exercise its good offices to compel Colombia to observe more strictly the requirements of neutrality. Otherwise, the allies, it was announced in the house of commons today, may be compelled in self-defense to take whatever measures they deem necessary for the protection of their interests.

Charles Tolpelt, under-secretary of the colonial department, speaking in behalf of the foreign office, made this announcement in the house of commons. He said that information in the possession of the government indicated that the governments of Colombia and Ecuador had failed in certain respects to observe an attitude of strict neutrality, and that their failure to do so was likely to be detrimental to the interests of England.

The particular cause of complaint against Colombia has reference to a high-power wireless station. The British charge d'affaires endeavored repeatedly, said Mr. Roberts, to induce the government to remove the staff of Germans at the wireless station. Failing in this, he sought to have the station closed. This report, received from the charge leaves it in doubt whether steps taken by the Colombian government are of an effective nature. He also reported that German steamers in ports of Colombia were continuing to use their wireless equipment, although ostensibly dismantled. It therefore appeared to the British government, said Mr. Roberts, that further representations to Colombia were not likely to be of any avail. It was decided to appeal in cooperation with the French government to the good offices of the United States to procure a more strict enforcement of Colombian neutrality.

The foreign minister of Ecuador himself has informed the British charge that the French colleagues and the wardships had converted certain islands belonging to Ecuador into naval bases. Mr. Roberts said: "The government of Ecuador has failed to comply with the request of Great Britain and France to exercise proper control of wireless communication. The British government, being of the opinion that further protests to Ecuador would be useless, and not being prepared to disregard Ecuador's obligations in respect to neutrality, judged it expedient to communicate with the government of the United States."

Natives Like Volcano From Which Anything May Be Expected: Economic Crisis

PARIS, Nov. 25.—Sixty prominent Americans in Paris gathered tonight for an informal Thanksgiving dinner. Although informed of much of the news of the war, the function was one of great cheerfulness as regards Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, who soon will return to the United States.

Lawrence V. Bennett of the American club and T. Dextro of the American chamber of commerce expressed in speeches the warm appreciation of the services of Mr. Herrick who, they declared, had displayed marvellous capacity as an organizer during the critical period in Paris.

Mr. Herrick, in replying, said the situation had drawn Americans closer together and had shown the value of united action. He closed with an eulogy of American women of all classes who have devoted themselves to the care of the wounded and other persons in need.

BRITISH PAY EVERY HONOR TO CHRISTMAS SHIP JASON

Express Heartfelt Appreciation to Americans for Gifts: Officers of Vessel Given Banquet

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 25.—(Via London.)—A dinner given tonight by the Earl of Beauchamp, first commissioner of works in the British cabinet, in honor of the officers of the United States naval collier Jason, the Santa Claus ship, closed a day in which the British foreign office and the citizens of greater Plymouth manifested in every possible manner the heartfelt appreciation of the kind and the courtesy for the 6,000 Christmas gifts sent by the people of the United States to the unfortunate children in the war zone.

Following the arrival of the Jason at Devonport today, American flags floated over every public building in Plymouth and from the main streets of all warships and commercial craft in the harbor until sunset. Hundreds of women visited the Jason at Devonport, two miles from Plymouth, after the official reception of the vessel. Among them was Mrs. Waldorf Astor, who presented Lieut. James C. R. Courtney, U. S. N., in charge of the ship, with a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums on behalf of the women of England.

Admission to the navy yard at Devonport was only by card, but thousands of persons stood outside the gates viewing the Christmas ship from a distance.

Express Great Appreciation. Fifty covers were laid for the dinner tonight, which was served in the Royal hotel. The dining room was a mass of roses and chrysanthemums. The British army and navy were represented by the commodore of the Plymouth fortress and the navy major, Major Baker of Plymouth and Major Waldorf Astor were among the guests. The Earl of Beauchamp replied to the toast "The King" while Francis Lyke Acland, under-secretary for foreign affairs, responded to "The President of the United States." Lieutenant Commander Courtney, replying to a toast to "The Christmas Ship," said: "The American navy is glad to discharge such a mission as this—a service which appeals to my heart. Thousands of little ones at home wish the Jason goodnight."

John Callan O'Loughlin, representing 200 newspapers throughout the United States which assisted in collecting the Christmas gifts, speaking to the toast "The Children of America," reviewed the history of the movement which made possible the collection of the gifts of the war zone.

During the dinner the Earl of Beauchamp read the following telegram from Lord Kitchener the British secretary of war: "Please express on my behalf and that of the British army our cordial appreciation and grateful thanks for the kind thought of the American people. The welcome freight the Jason carries will bring pleasure to the hearts of many of those whose fathers are away."

ACCIDENT MAY COST LIVES OF RAILROAD MEN

Lendrum was thrown over the dashboard and struck the pilot of the engine. Waters and Ellison were hurled to one side clear of the tracks. The men were taken at once to the Red Cross hospital and Drs. Kniz, Haasengraber and Danwoody were called. Ellison soon regained consciousness, but the condition of the others could not be ascertained.

R. B. ELLISON, not determined without an X-ray examination, and it was decided to bring them to Colorado Springs at once.

Waters, only returned Sunday from California, where his wife recently underwent a serious operation. Mrs. Waters is still in the hospital. Waters has a daughter, Mrs. C. R. Holden, living in California, and a son, Harry, who is attending Chicago university. Lendrum has been in the employ of the Santa Fe for many years. His home is 1420 East San Rafael street. His son, Alex Lendrum, is president of the freshman class at Colorado college and is a member of the freshman football team. A daughter, Miss Mattie Lendrum, is teaching in the city schools.

MILES FROM FIGHTING, JOFFRE DIRECTS ARMY

None of the Rush and Hurry Supposed to Be Typical Seen at His Headquarters: Work 24 Hours a Day

GENERAL JOFFRE'S HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 25.—(Associated Press Correspondence.)—The nerve center that moves more than 2,000,000 men in a village schoolhouse 70 miles behind the firing line. The rare observer who is permitted to learn its whereabouts and approach finds an absolute contrast between the tranquillity here and the intense action near the trenches. No cannon, machine gun or rifle fire can be heard.

The commander-in-chief coordinates his information and arrives at his decisions not only far from the disturbances of actual conflict, but in the depth of the country away from the first and second line of reserves, the incessant movement of motor transport and the distraction of civil life. An air of repose surrounds the headquarters, but life is intense here.

"What young fellows you have here," remarked the correspondent to a member of the staff. "They are the men of the future," he replied. "Some of these young colonels are at their desks at 5 in the morning and go to their quarters in pleasant private dwellings nearby at 10 at night. They are relieved by others and work goes on throughout the night."

General Joffre has six subordinate nerve centers in the six armies into which the field forces are divided. The six generals commanding these armies, Pau, Foch, Dainstein, Franche d'Esperey, Castelnau, Manoury, each with his general staff, are connected by direct telegraph and telephone wires with headquarters. General Joffre often talks over situations by telephone, receives suggestions and gives orders which are confirmed by telegraph. He is also in direct and frequent communication with Field Marshal French and Belgian headquarters and with Bordeaux and Paris.

Only One Sentinel

A single sentinel paces in front of the entrance. Except for a few forest guards there are no soldiers in General Joffre's village except the young men on his staff, picked for their talents from among the 50,000 officers of France. The roads of approach are watched by soldiers and it is impossible to enter the place except by a pass signed by the chief of General Joffre's staff or by one of the few persons in the military administration authorized to sign such a pass.

The headquarters of a commanding general used to be distinguished by the orderlies and horses in front and his rank could be pretty well determined by their number. Now it is the number of motor cars. Some 15 or 20 light, high-power runners are usually lined up in the playground of the schoolhouse. There is no tooting of horns. The cars come and go quietly and swiftly. The representative of the British war office, Colonel Yardley Buller, arrives, or the Russian military agent or an officer from the immediate front or a delegate from the

DELATED REINFORCEMENTS CAUSE OF GERMAN DEFEAT

One Army Corps, Possibly Two, Captured by Russians in Fierce Battle

LONDON, Nov. 25 (Thursday).—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent says he learns that one German army corps of over 40,000 men, with their munitions complete, has been captured and that he believes when the official details of the fighting in the east are forthcoming it will be found that at least two army corps have been captured.

"It seems," the correspondent adds, "that the large number of German reinforcements from Weiden, with which it was intended to envelop the Russian left flank, arrived only in time to support the retreat of the whole German right. The Russian cavalry made a series of charges into the masses of retreating German infantry, doing terrible execution on the fugitives."

"The German left, resting on the Vistula, appears still to be holding its position, but the defeat of the right wing must compel the retreat of the left also."

"While Russia is victorious in the direct route toward Erzerum, fighting is developing in the neighborhood of the Russian frontier along the valley of the Euphrates river, far from Basmun, which city appears to have been chosen as the objective of the main Turkish attack."

TURKS FLEEING BEFORE RUSS AROUND ERZERUM

PETROGRAD, Nov. 25.—That the Turkish forces still are retreating before the Russians in the region around Erzerum, is asserted in the following statement from the general staff of the Russian army in the Caucasus, made public here tonight: "In the direction of Erzerum our troops continue to chase before them the bulk of the Turkish forces, they have defeated. We are capturing many prisoners and much ammunition and stores."

"The roads along which the Turks are retreating are strewn with the frozen bodies of their dead. Prisoners taken are unanimous in declaring that the defeated army is making haste with a view to seeking shelter behind the forts at Erzerum and Dava-Boyun."

MEN IN TRENCHES TREAT ENEMY AS CLOSE FRIEND

Secure From Fire, Exchange Tobacco and Jokes: Kaiser Uses Silent Gun

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Light but interesting touches from the battle front are contained in an account from the pen of the British eye-witness, Col. E. D. Swinton, under date of November 23, given out today by the London press bureau. Of chief interest was the statement that the Germans are using a silent gun, probably of pneumatic equipment. Concerning the weapon the account says: "In our center the enemy employ a silent gun which may be pneumatic or worked by some other means of discharge. There is no report of the discharge, the projectile travels through the air without any of the warning made by an ordinary shell and the first notice to be received is its arrival in the bursting of the shell. So far the weapon has done no damage."

The account speaks of the armistice of the armistice as being at 50 points only 40 yards apart. The British and German talk back and forth, hold shooting competitions and exchange tobacco much after the manner of the Civil war.

"There the positions are not unaltered come to our men," the account says, "for they at any rate are secure from shell fire, hostile artillery being unable to shoot for fear that it would shoot its own infantry. Instead, either side a trench close to the enemy is a safe spot than any other in the fighting zone."

"Tactical agreements among the belligerents are often made," the account says. "A notable one is the mission of the representatives of either side to venture from the trenches to tea on a smoldering fire at 100 yards."

"Friend and foe continued to make use of this for days, until for some reason the Germans broke the truce and put a bullet in the shoulder of one of our men, thereby cutting off the supply of hot water from both sides. Cold weather has frozen the air, improving the conditions in the trenches in one sense, the account goes on, but the drop in the temperature makes the men so stiff that many have to be lifted out of the trenches when relieved, and others are sent partly frozen to hospitals."

"Beyond the hardships inflicted on individuals," Colonel Swinton says, "the change in the weather chiefly affected aerial reconnaissance transport. The freezing makes the roads better, and the clear, crisp atmosphere aids the aviators to see the landscape more freely."

THANKSGIVING DAY

OCCASIONALLY a Thanksgiving Day finds the average citizen a trifle puzzled to think of something to be especially thankful for. Everybody is not always prosperous, even in this land of prosperity, and misfortune of one kind or another gives all of us a momentary tussle occasionally.

But the man who can today realize that he is an American citizen and yet find nothing in his consciousness to feel profoundly grateful for is indeed an anomaly. Never before in our national history has the American republic occupied such a peculiarly fortunate position among the nations of the world. We are at peace; most of the other—nearly all of the important ones—are not. That alone is sufficient reason for thankfulness.

Great Britain, France and Germany, especially, are rated among the rich nations of the world. All of the other combatants are relatively poor, some are virtually bankrupt, not only nationally but as to the individuals who make up the political unit. But even the three leading European powers are rapidly plunging themselves into bankruptcy, and after the war ends it will take them a half century to make a walking recovery.

Contrast this condition with that of the United States. There has been plenty of alarmist talk in the last few months, but the truth is that our country has seldom been more prosperous. The value of this season's crop yield is greater than ever before in history; it is the greatest yield of products of the soil ever produced by one nation in the history of the world. The war has caused a steadily increasing demand for American goods, both raw and manufactured, and if American exporters use due tact and intelligence they will undoubtedly win a permanent place in the South American market and others from which they have hitherto been almost excluded.

Indeed, there is hardly an untoward condition before the American people today. Peace and prosperity are the two all-essential conditions, and we have them. Colorado shares in the general welfare of the nation. Its resources are fast being developed, especially the wealth that lies in its soil. Recently published figures tell an amazing story for instance, El Paso County alone contributed this year $2,000,000 to the farm production of the state which certainly is a creditable showing for a region not long since regarded as little better, for farming purposes, than a desert.

Industrial peace has been restored, with reasonable assurance that it will continue. The holding of two great expositions on the Pacific Coast next year, together with the impetus which the "See America First" movement has received in consequence of the European war will add greatly to the volume of tourist travel. Naturally the Pike's Peak Region, as the most popular playground in the state, will receive its full share.

Business in all lines is steadily improving. Local merchants report an upward trend that began with the cessation of political activity and has continued steadily. The only thing that is impeding retail business nowadays is the extremely mild weather. A sudden cold snap would fill the stores with shoppers, but there are some people, no doubt, who prefer that our incomparable weather continue indefinitely rather than see the merchants prosper in greater degree.

Let us be truly thankful, not in the superficial way which manifests itself merely in the enjoyment of a good dinner and an afternoon at the football game, but in a spirit more in consonance with the spirit which first established Thanksgiving Day as an occasion for the formal expression of our appreciation of blessings received.

PASS THE PLATE FOR THE BELGIANS

AT ABOUT 2 o'clock this afternoon, or thereabouts, there will come in most Colorado Springs homes the truly comfortable and satisfying moment of the day—the moment for the unanimous passage of a resolution that "I couldn't eat another bite." The turkey is a battered wreck; the cranberry sauce is a red smear in the bottom of the dish; everything else eatable has gone the way of Thanksgiving dinners. The family pushes itself back from the table, yawns comfortably, and then compares to loaf through the afternoon or tries to muster up enough energy to rush to the football game.

But today there is to be a slight change in the program. Before the family leaves the table Father is to pass the plate. And the family should come prepared. It must not plead ignorance, for it is hereby duly warned that this is the day for a Thanksgiving offering for the relief of the Belgians. Every member of the family should contribute, and dimes, nickels and pennies will if there are enough of them count for as much as the dollars and half dollars of the more opulent members of the family circle.

Colorado Springs has already been pretty thoroughly canvassed for the Red Cross fund and other timely charities, and its people have yet to put the Associated Charities on a firm financial basis for another year. But the Thanksgiving Day Belgian collection is different. No large subscriptions are solicited though, of course, they will be gladly received if offered. The plan is for each family to give as much or as little as it can conveniently spare. If only a thousand of the six or seven thousand families in Colorado Springs give an average of a dollar apiece Colorado Springs will contribute the substantial sum of $1,000 to assuage what is probably the most appalling condition of suffering in the history of civilization.

Don't leave the table today until you have passed the plate. Then tomorrow take the proceeds to any bank in Colorado Springs and give it to the man at the window, who will see that it goes to swell the total for the relief of the Belgians.

MILLIONS IN THE FRAY

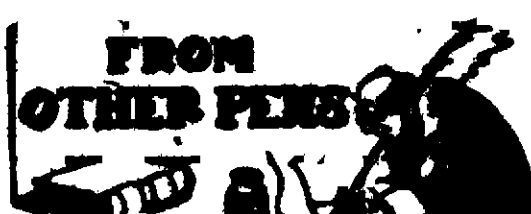

PROBABLY nobody knows even approximately how many are engaged in the European war. When we begin talking in millions it is easy to lapse into inaccuracy. Statistics showing the military strength, on both a peace and a war footing, of all the countries involved are familiar, but whether any or all of the combatants have been able to muster their rated strength is a matter of guesswork.

Nevertheless, it is plain that this is a struggle of millions on each side, and not one of thousands or hundreds of thousands as all past wars have been. A dispatch which purports to be authentic declares that on the eastern frontier alone no less than seven million men are engaged along the battle line which stretches from the Baltic Sea to the northern side of Hungary. Of these three millions are Germans and Austrians, and four millions are Russians. The battle has been in progress for two weeks, and both sides claim the victory, though both admit that the decisive stage has not been reached.

Suppose those figures are correct—and think what they mean! Seven million men! It is twice the entire population of the United States at the close of the Revolution. It is about a million more than the total population of the state of New York, with its second largest city in the world. It is almost as much as the entire population of Belgium before the war began.

And what are those seven million men doing? Simply killing, or trying to kill, each other. And when one side has killed so many of the other side that further resistance is impossible a glorious victory will have been achieved, and the victors will proceed to the next most available scene of operations to kill as many more as they can.

General Sherman's definition of war used to be thought more rhetorical than accurate. In the light of recent history it seems wholly inadequate.

FROM OTHER PERSPECTIVES

ANOTHER MARVEL

From the Chicago Tribune.
 An organization which is found ready to devote itself to the work of rescuing a nation more stupendous affects the imagination than an organization which is found ready to devote itself to the work of destroying one.

The ultimate necessity of destruction may have been anticipated and the method of meeting it worked out with precision. Germany built up a war machine in undisturbed hours of peace and built it to meet every imaginable exigency. The United States has found that it has an organization devoted to the alleviation of suffering which, without anticipating the particular necessity to which it now addresses itself, is able, with a slight readjustment of its methods, to meet that particular necessity.

The Rockefeller Institute has undertaken the work of rescuing Belgium from its hardships, of which the chief is lack of food. Unorganized sympathies might have caused much scurrying about and raising of funds, but the Rockefeller foundation merely directs its energies and is found almost equal to the task of lifting a nation out of distress. No agency anywhere nearly equal to this ever existed before.

WHAT A LEGACY FOR THEIR CHILDREN!

All the warring nations profess to be civilized. All profess to strive to inculcate in the minds of their youth the virtues of truth, honesty, industry and humanity.

But they not find each other being more difficult hereafter, must they not find it more difficult hereafter to convince youth that these virtues are really such—because of what they are doing now?

It is manifest that respect for human life, for industry and humanity, must suffer from the spectacle of the awful spectacles that Europe is now daily witnessing. Other virtues must suffer as well. How can the little English or French or German or Russian boy be convinced that truth and honesty are admirable when his own government—when the great men of his own land—send out false news, deliberately distort the facts of the fighting, are plainly, deliberately and daily lying?

Of course these are "military measures." To encourage their own people and discourage the enemy's—by deceiving both? They are excused and even justified on that ground. Yet they set an example in high places to the terribly logical mind of youth from whose effects upon public and private morals in the next generation the soul recoils.

What a legacy of confusion between right and wrong—what a heritage of warped distinction between virtue and vice the leaders and rulers of these nations are preparing for their children!

BANE OF EXTRAVAGANCE

From the Columbus (O.) Journal.
 It is said that the cards and invitations to a recent wedding in Philadelphia cost $30,000. Such extravagance is without the least justification, unless upon the obsolete idea that the poor realize upon such expenditure. But that doctrine has long been set aside. It does not benefit either the rich or the poor. Spending money for needless things only makes it the less for useful things.

Still there are many people, especially in the public service who seek popularity through being lavish. Sometimes such extravagance may help a poor fellow along, but in the main it weakens all. We should not forget that extravagance is poor public policy, and public opinion should be decidedly against it. A public officer who cannot find useful things to spend money for should be allowed to retire speedily, because he does not know his business.

THE MODERN WEDDING MARCH.

From the Helena, Mont., Independent.
 During the beautiful Episcopal ceremony, soft strains of music were played by the orchestra and immediately following the ceremony the orchestra played "This is the Life."

PROBABLY SEWED 'EM INSIDE

From the Hinsdale Boiling.
 Dr. J. B. French requests the return of a meat extractor which he has left at the home of some of his patients. The doctor has also mislaid on his calls a number of surgical scissors and other instruments, and he would appreciate a telephone message that would facilitate their return.

LORD, HOW THIS WORLD IS GIVEN TO KNOCKING.

From the Tucson, Ill., Democrat.
 C. F. Hacker, editor of our esteemed contemporary, is again at his desk after a brief illness with stomach trouble. We are very pleased to note his recovery. While his illness was too brief to give his subscribers much of a rest, as the old woman once remarked upon a historic occasion, every little helps.

IN WHICH THE BEANS ARE SPILLED.

From the Woodstock Vt., Standard.
 NOTICE.—Whereas my wife Emma Lloyd Bean, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, I hereby notify all persons concerned that I shall pay no debts of her contracting after this date.

JOHN BEAN.
 NOTICE.—I, Mrs. John Bean, contradict Mr. J. Bean's statement in saying that I left his bed and board. In the first place, I know where I am, and I have the bed I bought and paid for as Mr. Bean had only a bedstead and comforter in the room of mattress. Mr. John Bean ordered me out of his house without any cause on my part, for the third time, and this last time he got into his mad fits which he is often subject to and was so gentle and loving as to say that he would accompany me to the foot of the hill for fear I might get hurt. Indeed that was genuine kindness of my beloved husband. Dear readers of the Standard, I hope you will sympathize with me for having lost such a cozy and empty little mansion of my dear beloved husband with the distinguished neighbors around it. I certainly will get nervous prostration mourning over the loss of such an earthly paradise.
 MRS. J. BEAN

'A Masculine, Thank the Lord'

BY RUTH CAMERON

The following remarkable letter, written by one woman to another, was sent me by a letter friend who found it among some papers which came into his possession. So I think it is without question a genuine letter.

I wonder if it will make your blood boil the way it did mine.

"Dear Madam, it runs I have in my service at present a former housemaid of yours. M. B. I discovered by chance the other day that she has in her possession a pair of fine Maltese lace cuffs or sleeves with having appropriated. She told me that they were part of a lace set that her father gave her when she was married, at which statement I could only be amused.

She has absolutely no idea of their value, for she wears some on a common dress under very common black lace. I told her that if she would say to whom they belonged I would restore them and say no more about it. I am sure some one regrets having lost them, and as I know she was with you for some time, I thought it might be possible that they were yours. In any case I consider it my duty to let you know she has discharged her in consequence of her refusal to admit the theft, as I told her that such lace was quite out of place in possession of anyone working in my kitchen.

So kindly let me hear from you as soon as possible, as she will be leaving my house in a few days." The letter friend who sent me that letter signed himself "A masculine thank the Lord."

After reading it I didn't much blame him. Of course there are plenty of women who are incapable of accusing another on such vague grounds. Nevertheless, I fear that the habit of jumping at unjust conclusions with no real grounds to jump from, is inherently feminine.

Just the other day a woman told me that a man who is suspected of drinking had been on a drunk on a certain day. I asked her how she knew and she told me that she had been to his house to see him on business and his son had told him he was sick and that she could not see him.

The idea that he might really be sick apparently never entered her head. And what was worse, instead of stating the facts and pointing out the inference which she drew from them, she went about stating her inference as facts and entirely omitting to mention the actual facts in the case. Of course he may have been intoxicated; personally I think he probably was, but she didn't know that he was, and not knowing she had no right to say so.

The law requires that an accused man shall be proved guilty. It does not assume his guilt and ask him to prove himself innocent. We call the law hard. What about the woman who assumes the guilt of anyone she suspects and does not give him a chance to prove himself innocent?

THANKSGIVING

This is the day upon which the average American eats himself into a comatose condition in the effort to express his thankfulness over what he has or hasn't gotten during the past year.

Thanksgiving was once a religious festival, now it is chiefly athletic. In the past 100 years man has advanced wonderfully in the art of getting a half-nelson on a third plateful of turkey and downing it without the aid of a pneumatic tamping outfit.

It is going to be easier this year to be thankful that it ever has been before. Gratefulness is going to be particularly rampant today and only those Americans whose lives have been permanently impaired will have the nerve to growl reproachfully at the past 12 months.

Some Americans have had very poor health during the past year, and have suffered from expensive and engrossing diseases, but they have not had to be operated upon for cannon balls in the thorax.

"In all the world there is nothing to match his peculiar and poignant woe."

Other Americans are only working a few days a week. Yet when they consider how they might be working regularly digging trenches all night and dodging shells all day they are almost supernaturally content.

Still other citizens have lost their property by fire recently and in ordinary years would now be celebrating Thanksgiving with moans of derision. But this year they can hardly hold enough turkey to express their gratitude. If they were Belgians they would not only have lost their dwellings by fire, but the cellars would also have been blown out of shape and rendered useless for rebuilding purposes.

Thus Thanksgiving has gathered in one mighty throng of gratitude the whole nation with the exception of the defeated candidate. In all the world there is nothing to match his peculiar and poignant woe, and even turkey will not alleviate it. The defeated candidate will always continue to be a death's head at our Thanksgiving dinners until the great holiday is moved forward into October.

A PASSING

No more than this I deem a loved one's death.
 The passing through a door that soon shall swing
 For us a moment's daze—a quick-drawn breath.
 And then—the old love's joyous welcome.
 —Arthur Wallace Peach in Lippincott's

THE CALL OF THE WILD

I know a place where the fern is deep
 And the giant fir waves high
 And a rocky ledge hangs dark and steep,
 And a laughing brook leaps by.
 And it's there to be with a soul that's free
 From the street's discordant jar,
 With a blanket spread on a cedar bed
 And the voice of the world afar.

I know of a pool in a leafy dell
 That the wary trout love best,
 And a timid trail to the chaparral
 Where the red deer lie at rest.
 A night bird's call when the shadows fall
 And a cougar's eerie cry
 And a deep and a dreamless sleep
 Under the open sky.
 —Leslie's Weekly

BRITISH AIRMEN DECORATED WITH THE LEGION ON HONOR

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, to the express says: "A telegram from Belfort states that the commanding general had a parade Monday in honor of the British airmen, Commander Robinson and First Lieutenant Ellis, who participated in the raid on Friedrichshafen and decorated them with French Legion of honor. Later the officers of the garrison entertained the airmen at a banquet."

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 26, 1884
 Rev. A. P. Tinker and bride came down from Denver on the Thunder-bolt.

Exceedingly high winds had prevailed for the past few days and made the streets very disagreeable.

Sergeant Hall of the signal service and A. M. Cunningham, the photographer, started for the summit of Pike's Peak to remain over Thanksgiving.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. Evans

Question pertinent to hygiene, nutrition, and prevention of disease, if of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space is not for it or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped addressed envelope is included. Dr. Evans will make no charge for his service. Requests for such service must be by mail.

PYORRHEA

About the most widely spread of all maladies is pyorrhea. Dr. A. F. Black says that 95 per cent of all grown persons either have pyorrhea or can be shown to be on the way to pyorrhea. This parallels the statement of Nagell, who declared that in making autopsies on the bodies of persons dead from tuberculosis diseases 95 per cent were found to have had a little tuberculosis somewhere in their lives.

Pyorrhea is like consumption in another particular. Taken early, it is easily curable, taken late, it is usually incurable.

Last summer Dr. Allen J. Smith of the University of Pennsylvania came to the conclusion that an ameba found in the mouth of persons having pyorrhea was the cause of the disease. The very great practical and immediate significance of this announcement is that we have a cure for disease due to ameba.

Dr. Smith reported cases in cases where the disease was quite advanced. To be sure, the roots and processes were not gone, the teeth could not be picked out with the fingers, but they were advanced cases nevertheless. The gums were spongy, the teeth were loose and pus pockets burrowed down the roots.

As soon as Dr. Smith found this animal parasite present and prominent in his mind ran to emetine as the cure. The emetine treatment for dysentery has been long in use. Emetine, an active principle from ipecac, has been found to be as specific for dysentery and other conditions due to ameba, as quinine is for malarial conditions which result from the related organism, the malarial protozoan. Smith injected emetine into the gums.

Base of New Orleans has tried out the method proposed by Smith and found it effective. Nobody in this country speaks with any more authority on these subjects than Smith and Base. Smith investigated animal parasites at

ALBOLINE IS LIQUID VASELINE

Albolene is a liquid vaseline. No. 1. It is a liquid vaseline. It is absorbed into the blood, where it temporarily increases the alkalinity. The system quickly reacts to overcome this alkalinity. It does this by increasing production of acid, and by excreting the soda into the urine. The urine is made alkaline thereby. A good habit can be established. All in all the frequent use of Soda does harm. It leaves the cause of rheumatism untouched.
